

PRIVACY POLICY

Amawebs.com, hereafter “Amawebs.com”, is committed to implementing measures designed to protect the privacy of those who use its Web Portal, its Virtual offices and its services in general, (hereafter “the site” or “our site”). Therefore, we establish rules and regulations as regards our Privacy Policy. Matters regarding Terms and Conditions of users, advertisers, and Independent Affiliates are included in this section.

We gather two types of information, personally identifiable information and non-personally identifiable.

This information is related to location data such as Country, State/Province, City, address, Postcode/Zip Code and phone numbers. As well as, Name, Last name, Identification, email address, password to this site, and domain personalized name –

The information we gather in our Virtual Office is for internal use exclusively. Amawebs.com uses this information both to operate the site and for the management of each Affiliate’s business. We may occasionally inform our Affiliates of new features, services, promotions and products available on our site. We do this using the information provided by our Affiliates and considering they have accepted our terms and Conditions. We also reserve the right to share information with our promotional partners, who provide goods and services, if we consider our Affiliates may be interested in such.

We limit our own email regarding our services and promotions to those registered users (Affiliates or Members) who have not “opted out” of receiving such communications. Our solicitations clearly indicate the origin of the email and provide the customer with a method of “opting out” of receiving future communications of a similar nature. If the Affiliate does not wish to continue receiving information about our features, services, promotions and products, they must send an email with a request to legal@amarillasinternet.com.

The accuracy or veracity of the information provided by the Affiliate(s) and their legal state are not previously verified by Amawebs.com. We consider these factors must be truthful and show the Affiliate’s full capacity to enter an agreement. In the case deliberately untruthful data is found, the agreement will be terminated.

Amawebs.com reserves the right to disclose information contained within its logs as it reasonably feels it is necessary to protect its system or business. Amawebs.com cooperates with law enforcement agencies in identifying those who may be using our servers or services for illegal activities. Moreover, the Company reserves the right to not only inform law enforcement agencies about any suspected illegal activity, to be investigated or to pursue legal action; but also suspend or terminate an agreement, Ad or any kind of membership provided an illegal activity is suspected to be taking place.

Collecting such information involves visitor's logging of IP addresses, operating system, browser software, Internet Service Provider, and geographic location.

It also helps us to improve our available online services to assure they are high-quality and useful. We acquire this by performing statistical analyses of the collective characteristics and behavior of the users, and by measuring demographics and interests regarding specific areas of our site.
